

Survive the Pandemic

Hi, My Diamonds and Zebras.

First of all, I would like to express my deepest grief for people who passed away and suffering from coronavirus, and express my appreciation to comrades of our company. Also I wanna say thank you to doctors, nurses, and people who work for children.

The coronavirus is changing our daily life dramatically. Our idea of normality, of public life, social togetherness — all of these is we had nothing experienced ever before.

Even in this situation, we are responsible to secure not only lives, but also the supply chain — these are vital in order to save our lives.

As a CEO, I've already done financing to survive these difficulties. I will save our lives and will put companies to endure this difficulty. I would like all of you to know that we still have very strong relationship with banks and customers even in this situation.

We will prove, as a comrade, that we will not ignore one another.

I have absolutely no doubt that we will overcome this crisis.

But how many victims will it claim? How many loved ones will we lose? The answer, to a great extent, lies in our hands. Right now, we can take decisive action all together. We can accept these current limitations and support one another.

We, Diamonds and Zebras, we will be united again in our common interest, and will be fighting for our existence.

We're fighting for our right to live, to exist, and should we win the day.

We will not go quietly into the night!

We will not vanish without a fight!

We will endure, We Diamonds and Zebras will survive!

Please take good care of yourself and your loved ones.

Thank you.

Köszönöm

謝謝

धन्यवाद
